"I have spent a major part of my life serving USM, through the USM School of Educational Studies and later in the capacity as the USM Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Industry and Community Network) from 2011 until 2016, which has provided me with plenty of room and opportunities to contribute towards the implementation and transformation of the industry and community network, including those relating to global networks," she said.

She added, this award is truly a major recognition of all the efforts initiated and opportunities provided by USM in fulfilling her duties and responsibilities to different societies around the world.
