

1. Liberalism, Realism and Marxism are three different approaches to analyze international relations. What are the major similarities and differences among them? Give examples to illustrate your understanding of these theories.
2. Discuss the three models of international relations. Explain the model that you think best explain the current global politics.
3. Globalization processes expand the definitions “power” and “security” in the analysis of international politics. Discuss the expanded elements with illustration from current issues or recent incidents in international politics.
4. “The problem for International Political Economy is the actual or potential structural mismatch between a formal state system based on territory (i.e. state) and an economic system that is increasingly non-territorial and globalized”. Discuss the statement.
5. Discuss how transnational corporations and international non-governmental organizations can play important roles in global politics with relevance examples.
6. Explain the differences between orthodox and the alternative view of development. Give examples where appropriate to illustrate your understanding.